

Call for applications — 2025 Model OSCE in Andorra

The OSCE is pleased to announce a call for applications for 2025 Model OSCE in Andorra.

We are looking for 15 students and/or young experts residing in Andorra who are passionate about comprehensive security and committed to engage in a simulation game focused on negotiation and conflict resolution.

What is the Model OSCE?

The aim of the Model OSCE is to build confidence and strengthen dialogue between young women and men with different backgrounds and empower them by enhancing their knowledge and skills on OSCE principles, values and processes which they can apply and promote in their respective professional, political and civic engagement roles.

Participants will represent an OSCE participating State and/or other relevant actors who work together to resolve a crisis. During the three-day event, participants will receive negotiation skills training and learn about the work of the OSCE, OSCE structures and consensus-based decision-making.

This event is a part of the series of Model OSCE events that will be organized at local, sub-regional and regional levels to promote dialogue and mutual understanding among young people.

How does the programme work?

Participation in Andorra: The event will take place at the University of Andorra from 19 to 21 May 2025 and the participants are expected to stay for the whole period of the activity. The event foresees the participation of more 10 participants (25 in total) from OSCE participating States and Partners for Co-operation.

The programme will include presentations about the OSCE, current challenges to security, training sessions on negotiations, mediation, gender equality, dialogue facilitation and others.

The core activity will be a simulation exercise of an OSCE related negotiation. Networking opportunities with OSCE representatives will also be organized.

Costs: participation in the Model OSCE is free of charge.

Interested in joining us? Selection criteria are the following:

- You are residing in Andorra or you are a national of Andorra;
- You are 18-30 years old;
- You have a demonstrated interest and/or relevant experience in international affairs, and you are an active and engaged member in academia, think tanks, civil society organizations, youth or youth-led organizations, education or media;
- Experience in engaging with local communities will be an asset;
- You are fluent in English;
- You are eager to share your experience in promoting the role of young people at different levels and learn from others; and,
